Introduction to Comparative Politics

Presentation

How can we explain the variety of political regimes existing in the world? Why are some countries democratic and others not? What are the consequences of electoral systems? Is there a regime ensuring political stability? These are some of the questions that will be covered in this course. This course constitutes an introduction to the discipline of comparative politics for first year students. Students will discover the important authors of discipline, study various examples drawn from Western Europe in particular to understand the debates of comparative politics, and will be introduced with current issues showing the relevance of comparative politics to understand the contemporary political debates. The first part focuses on state formation, democratization, and typologies of political regimes. The second part deals with the organization of power in Western democracies (government, parliament, etc). The final part focuses on three in depth case studies illustrating the relevance of comparative politics to understand the United States, Italy, and Belgium.

Recommended Prerequisite(s)

None (except for a good command of English).

In brief

ECTS credits : 1.0
Number of hours : 18.0
Teaching term : Six-monthly
Teaching activity : Lecture course
Year : First year
Validation : Final written examination

Contacts

Responsible(s)
Forest Amandine
a.forest@sciencespobordeaux.fr
Houdayer Corinne
choudayer@sciencespobordeaux.fr
Bedock Camille
c.bedock@sciencespobordeaux.fr
Bibliography

* Siaroff, Alan (2013). Comparing political regimes, Toronto, University of Toronto Press.

Formule pédagogique

One hour and a half seminar each week, required readings when indicated.