

The sociology of culture

Presentation

This class aims to introduce students to the sociology of culture (predominantly French) by placing emphasis on the specificity of the sociological approach to culture. For this purpose, we will pay particular attention to several points: We will present Bourdieu's dominant theory and analyze it in detail before discussing it by referring to various authors (Donnat, Lahire, Heinich, Passeron, Boltanski, etc.). We will then examine alternative theoretical currents (H. Becker's interactionism or P-M Menger's social economy of culture); We will present the sociology of cultural practices, by focusing this time on the methodological dimension (quantitative versus qualitative approaches); Finally, we will discuss the sociology of cultural occupations and all the questions it raises. We will conclude the class by presenting major sociological issues and challenges facing this field (integration/exclusion, rationalization, identity, conflicts, specialization, etc.).
