

Masters "Europe - Russia : Global issues and strategies" of the Institute of Political Studies

Presentation

The aim of the "Europe-Russia: global issues and strategies" masters course is to train students into actors of the cooperation between Europe and Russia by providing them with necessary theoretical knowledge on the Russian world and by allowing them to apply their skills in a Russian professional environment. It is open to students with a Bachelor's degree and a good command of the Russian language. The university course provides in-depth knowledge of the institutional environment of contemporary Russia. Immersion in the Russian world is achieved through concrete integration into the Russian academic system and the compulsory end-of-study internship in Russia.

This course leads to the awarding of two diplomas: a Master's degree from Sciences Po Bordeaux and a Master's degree from the People's Friendship University of Moscow. The classes consist of half Russian students and half French students.

-- Main training and research components --

Year 1 at Sciences Po Bordeaux: European political and economic integration, political and socio-economic characteristics of contemporary Russia.

Year 2 in Moscow: Russian political and economic system, research dissertation, internship of several months in a Russian company or organisation.
